Right to maintenance- Maintenance includes the basic necessities of life like food, shelter, clothes, education, health care facilities etc. A married woman is entitled to get maintenance from her husband even after her divorce till she doesn't remarry.

Right of private defence/ self-defence- It is a defensive right. You can cause hurt, grievous hurt or even death in protecting your body or another person's body from the assailant. But you can kill the assailant without attracting liability and punishment only in certain circumstances like: When you feel that the assailant is about to cause your death or grievous hurt or commit rape, kidnapping or abduction or if he intends to lock you in a room or throws or attempts to throw acid at you, then you can kill that person and law will protect you.

Right against discrimination
The United Nations (UN) Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) is the most comprehensive treaty on the rights of women. It condemns any form of discrimination against women and reaffirms the importance of guaranteeing equal political, economic, social, cultural and civil
