

“Ikrozapnirooh se poocha, kidillikyahai, tohyunjawab main kehgayi, yeh duniya mano jism hai aur dilli uski jaan.” – Mirza Ghalib

(One day I asked my soul, 'What is Delhi?' It replied, 'The world is the body, Delhi its soul.')

Ghalib's Haveli in Ballimaran and sizzling hot jalebis and black halva at Haneef's Mithai shop offered a portal into Ghalib's Delhi. – Yashve Singhal

Delhi has witnessed history being created. This project provides a doorway to it. – Kangana Aggarwal

Like a flâneur in a modern city, I wish to become a part of this enigma bigger than myself. To rediscover this city was to rewrite myself. To Delhi, that brought me to myself, that brought me home. – Muskan Miglani

The preserved tradition in the small congested city continues to amaze me with its resilience to the modernity that surrounds it. I have so much yet to discover. – Siya Singh

Have you smelt the invisible incense at Ferozshah Kotla and offered sweets and letters to Djinn's? To those who know it is much more than just a stadium; come here for its wish fulfilment potential, as we discovered in the course of our visit. – Arshiya Mahajan

My first research project “Commerce in modern Shahjahanabad”, turned out to be my most exciting learning experience. – Radhika Kukreja

A visit barely scrapes the surface and glosses over many aspects. This project was about finding my Delhi as a living breathing neighbourhood. – Ritigya Malik

Delhi isn't just a city. It's the zephyr of life. It moved me, startled me and loved me. – Priyamvada Singh Solanki

This city never ceases to startle us. It is almost as if every nook, every corner has its own glorious tale to recite. – Ananya Tyagi

There's an old-world charm that persists in the streets of this city. Delhi, along with being a bustling heritage site also reminds us of poets that it has birthed. So, for me, this city will always ignite an unending fondness for the ghazals of Ghalib and Mir. – Kashvi Chandok

What fascinated me most about the Qutub Complex is the coexistence of the architectural heritage of various faiths. – Nandini Lohia

With endless places to explore, people to meet and stories to learn, Delhi is rightfully called “Dilwalonki Dilli”. – Aditi Nagpal
